Wild West Hoedown and BBQ Planned at the Fullerton Arboretum March 8, 2008

(Fullerton, CA) – The Fullerton Arboretum is happy to announce a “Wild West Hoedown” and barbeque is planned for Saturday, March 8, 2008 from 5:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. on the Fullerton Arboretum museum pavilion. This event is open to the public and members; however reservations are required by February 29, 2008 to guarantee attendance. Plan to saddle up old Paint and mosey on down to the Arboretum on the 8th for an old fashioned, authentic western “themed” night of good food, entertainment and refreshments.

Guests are “wanted” by the Fullerton Arboretum for a knee slappin’, foot stompin’ good old time. Wear your best cowboy/cowgirl duds and get ready to be entertained by the award-winnin’ “Final Destination Cloggers.” And there’s more. Country western line dancing to a live band, plus tasty vittles by Big B’s BBQ with all the fixin’s planned. Beer, wine and sarsaparilla are included with a full western barbecue meal, cooked on-site.

Don’t get caught in the stampede competing for a seat. For reservation information, call (714) 278-4002 or email to jmcgarvey@fullerton.edu. The cost is $70 per person, payable in advance. Seating may be limited and subject to first-come, first-serve reservations. This event promises to be a “fun-raiser”; with no auctions, raffles or other stuff like that offered on the schedule—just come and have fun.
