Fullerton Arboretum Offers “Scouting for Wagons” Program For Local Scout Troops

The Fullerton Arboretum is pleased to announce a new program to meet service project needs for local scout troops. “Scouting for Wagons” promotes Daisies, Brownies, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts to provide a valuable community service for the Fullerton Arboretum.

The “Scouting for Wagons” program encourages scouts of all ages to collect used wagons in good condition, paint them green and then decorate them to reflect their troop number, motto or service project title. Through our Volunteer Office, troop leaders may arrange to deliver the completed projects and a photo to be taken of the troop and their donated wagons. Photos will be featured on the Fullerton Arboretum website as well as local media outlets.

Donated decorated wagons will be used by Arboretum patrons while visiting the garden for plant sales and other garden events. For more information and to arrange for a “Scouting for Wagons” assignment, please contact Harriet Bouldin, Volunteer Coordinator at 714-278-4798 or hbouldin@fullertont.edu.
